

Contents

Introduction	1
Using Research to Inform Practice	1
Is There a Crisis in Literacy?	3
About this Book	5

Supporting Early Literacy: The Preschool Literacy Years	7
Language Development	8
Conversations in the Nursery	9
An Optimal Language-Learning Environment	12
Activities to Support Emergent Literacy	16
Singing and Poetry	16
Authentic Multicultural Activities	18
Literacy-Enriched Learning Centers and Pretend Play	20
Storytelling	24
Vivian Paley's Approach to Storytelling and Fantasy Play	26
Sharing Books with Infants, Toddlers, and Preschoolers	30
Keeping Track of Literacy Development	33
Children At Risk of School Failure	34
Poverty and Early Language Learning	35
Using Research to Inform Practice	38
Conclusion	43

Supporting Early Literacy: The Primary Years	45
Introduction	45
Oral Language	45
Dramatic Play	46
Reading Aloud	46
Comprehension	47
Engagement	47
The Relationship Between Reading and Writing	48
Phonemic Awareness and Phonics Knowledge	48
Beginning Real School	50
Fourth-Grade Slump	50
Research on Brain Development	52
Building a Strong Literacy Foundation	53
Children Who Learn to Read and Write "Naturally"	53
Storybook Reading by Children Who Are Not Yet Reading	55
Research Support for Authentic Reading and Writing Activities	58
The Strategies of "Well-Read-To" Children:
Help or Hindrance in Learning to Read?	61
Learning to Read: Somewhat of an Unnatural Act	63
A Balanced Curriculum: Avoiding the Instructional Cuisinart	64

Elements of a Balanced Curriculum	65
1. Teaching for Understanding and Learning as Understanding	65
2. Schools as Caring Communities	68
3. A “Print-Rich” Environment	71
4. Reading Aloud, Discussing Stories, and Independent Reading.	73
5. Teacher Demonstrations of Skills and Strategies for Decoding	78
6. Dictating and Acting Out Stories	86
7. Opportunities to Write, with Various Levels of Support	88
8. Using Projects to Integrate Literacy into All Aspects of the Classroom, Including Art and Music.	93
9. Monitoring Children’s Progress.	99
Conclusion	102
Site Profiles	105
Helen Gordon Child Development Center, Portland, Oregon:
Doing Things with Words in the Real World.	105
Fostering a Knowledgeable, Self-Confident Self-Identity.	107
A Calm, Unhurried Atmosphere	109
Conclusion.	112
Helen Baller Elementary School, Camas, Washington:
Highlight My Strengths.	114
Alona Dickerson’s Classroom	115
Conclusion.	118
Cherry Valley Elementary School, Polson, Montana:
A Collective Vision	119
Changing Practices	121
Starting Where the Learner Is	122
Linking Assessment with Instruction	123
Strategies from New Zealand	123
A Busy Publishing Center.	124
Doug Crosby’s Classroom	125
Skills and Meaning	131
Conclusion	131
Harborview/Capital Elementary School, Juneau, Alaska:
An Active Child in an Active Social Environment.	132
A Shared Philosophy	133
Knowing Where Kids Are, How They Got There, and What to Do Next.	133
Early Literacy	134
Mimi Walker’s Classroom	135
Debbie Fagnant’s Classroom.	137
Conclusion.	140
Mary Harrison Primary School, Toledo, Oregon:
People Support What They Create.	141
Share, Care, and Grow.	142
Making Connections.	143

Children Who May Need “Something Extra” 147
 Charting Children’s Progress 147
 Conclusion. 148

Handouts 149

- 1. Thirteen Core Understandings About Learning to Read
- 2a-b. Highlights of Research on Learning to Talk
- 3. The Optimal Environment for Stimulating Language Development
- 4a-b. Learning to Read and Write—The Early Years
- 5a-b. Singing and Poetry
- 6a-b. Literacy-Enhanced Activity Centers
- 7a-b. Research on Play
- 8a-e. Vivian Paley’s Approach to Storytelling and Dramatization
- 9a-b. Benefits of Storyreading
- 10a-b. Brain Facts
- 11a-b. Storybook Reading by Children Who Are Not Yet Reading and
 The Transition from Oral to Written Language
- 12a-b. Developmental Spelling
- 13a-c. Suggestions for Including Families and the Community in Literacy Activities
- 14a-d. Research on Bilingual Education
- 15. Some Strategies to Encourage Independent Reading and Writing
- 16. Research on How Children Acquire Phonics Knowledge
- 17a-b. Summary of Strategies to Develop Decoding Skills
- 18. Highlights of Research on Resiliency

References 187